Report of Activities Conducted by Department of Chemistry (2021-22)

Activity Name	Date of conducted Activity	No. of Participants	Activity Outcome
1. Chemistry Teacher Workshop on A Closer look at redesigning experiments for undergraduate chemistry laboratory (Attended by Mrs. Priyanka More)	17th and 18th June 2021	1	There were three practical cases under the heading of Qualitative Puzzle, A Walk through an Organic Synthesis and Titrimetric Analysis along with discussion sessions after every experiment study. I have got an idea about an interdisciplinary experiment where students can learn various types of chemistry concepts and inter-relation between them. So learning is more than what students learn in regular experimental analysis. In fact, they can add in their own concepts, think, redesign and actually can do miniature research. Students can be allowed to actually consult books, resources to solve the experiment so that they are able to appreciate the relation between theoretical and practical knowledge also. They can also learn about hazardous chemicals and safety precautions involved while or before conducting experiments. The best part of this kind of experiment is the less amount of chemicals being used and educating the students about environment safety. We do need to change our perception and the way we provide learning to the students. It is very important for the student to know why she is doing the experiment. What is its practical application? I can understand the constraint of time during practicals but we can cut on the time for preparation of chemicals and give students prepared chemicals and spend more time on pre and post lab sessions. Through this workshop module I can plan to have a connection between the theory and practical. Sometimes we have limited resources - lab space, teacher to student ratio, academic calendar, etc. Then how can we find out the way to solve such problems? yes, by using various aspects such as group practical, practical division, group discussion etc under teacher's moderation. We should stop spoon feeding through manuals and start giving them challenging experimental activities. Such as telling them to calculate on how to prepare the different concentration of solutions as pre lab activity. In the present scenario of corona this online teaching is making a difference as well. Students are suffering and it makes them careless more. But yes, we can make them independent thinkers by proposing interesting methodology while conducting practical.

5. "Orientation Program for F.Y Students A.Y 2021-22"	4th October 2021	28	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Orientation programs serve as a foundation for college success. In many instances, orientation programs create a lasting impression for new students and their families. • Another factor to consider is the orientation of parents. Because parents can aid in the student's transition into college life, the university needs to inform parents as well as students about the structure of the university and where to find additional information. • Orientation is designed to answer questions before students are asked and to provide solutions before problems occur. By planning appropriately and using all campus resources, orientation should relieve anxieties and prepare the new students for success.
